Hello Dr. Jagadeeswaran,

Hope you're doing well.

We received some information about a UNT research project relating to oocyte maturation funded by the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation. We had a few questions about this project and hope you can provide some clarification:

1. This seems to be a project targeted towards researching "oocyte maturation." What is that?
2. This project includes supplies like "knockdown reagents" and "CRISPR reagents." What are those referring to?
3. Have progress reports been submitted for each phase of this project?
4. What was the extent of your involvement in this project? Documents indicate you were only working during the summer months, whereas other staff on this project were paid for 12 months of work.
5. One of the costs associated with this grant request is "travel to attend a national meeting." What is this meeting?
6. Likewise, costs include three publications. Which publications does this refer to?

We would greatly appreciate a response before next Tuesday, March 21.

Thank you so much!

This proposal was selected in the first round and in the second round it was rejected. Thus, it was not funded.

Thank you for the clarification!

Could you still provide me with some information about what the original proposal intended to accomplish?

Thank you!
